Johnson was profords, and will be closed out regardless of moted to a high office after paying very little regard to the laws and verdices of jurors, for, from reports, he had pardoned 57 convicts. And there has been a great increase of crime and risk of life and property, which is another important fact for the Governor to explain, for dollars control ted, is beyond the equity of redemption, and some men and things more than Providence.

Mr. Nicholson was elected long before Mr. Bell's time was out, and from the way they were spending time and money, I published another bill on the 15th of March '58, and told them, I thought by the end of '59 they would learn that the Know-Nothings had minds that could think, and would stir up such a stink, that it would make dress the people at the following times and W. G. Lane & Co. suspended in 1857, but as you take a hint, and wish for Nicholson, Ewing, Pillow and others to help you, I Winchester thought-for they had conferred favors on the North-western Railroad Democratic gang, which was the most idle and extravagant set I had seen. And as the constitution provides for its amendment, I cannot understand what they wanted with a State Constitution, unless it was to give King Stevenson a crown and unlimited power to tax us. And I suppose that Buchanan, Judge Humphreys, editor Eastman, and some others, look on big debts as a blessing, for they make me think of the Federalists, the gag bill, and State bonds as be ing bills of credit. And I suppose General JACKSON, HOUSTON, BELL, and others thought it best and safest, to let the Missouri compro-Manchester, England, is the greatest mise stand, and that you and others, thought vourselves wiser and stronger, and broke it son and White, which gave us cause to think you would increase their light, and keep all things right, though I have been thinking, and tried to give you hints that you were getting in the tog, and out of their trucks and had better turn back, and look for their tracks, and let Governor Jonnson hunt for Burron's bond and his security, and ex-
